WHAT THE CABLE SAYS

The Race on Epsom Downs—An Irish Paper Suppressed—European Complications—The White Elephant.

England.

LONDON, May 23.—Major Barrington succeeds Sir Edward Baldwin Malet as British Consul General to Egypt.

Lord Dufferin has arrived here from Egypt after a conference, en route with the representatives of the French Government.

LONDON, May 23.—The British Government has sent a protest to the Porte against the imposition by Turkey of an ad valorem duty on English goods instead of the regular tariff duty.

LONDON, May 23.—The race for the Derby stakes, run at Epsom Downs to-day, was won by St. Blaise, Highland Chief second and Galliard third.

The weather this morning was beautiful, the sun shining brightly and the air fairly cool. Immense crowds left London for Epsom Downs to witness the great Derby. The city presented a remarkably empty appearance, despite the fact that the number of horses expected to run was probably the smallest on record.

Ireland and Irish Affairs.

DUBLIN, May 23.—A quantity of arms and cartridges has been discovered under a bridge at Sligo.

An inquiry is proceeding into the murder conspiracy which has been unearthed in County Mayo. The first clue to its existence was obtained from a person who was arrested with suspicious papers in his possession. He was then released to act as a spy in the interest of the police. In this capacity he attended several meetings of the conspirators, at which a number were named to be murdered. The assassins were appointed by lot. In furtherance of the plots concocted by the conspirators two farmers were shot and wounded. Six of the plotters have been arrested and are undergoing an examination.

Germany.

BERLIN, May 23.—The statues of William and Alexander von Humboldt were unveiled here to-day with impressive ceremonies. Deputations were present from every Prussian University, and from many other German Universities. All the learned societies were represented.

France.

PARIS, May 23.—The Chamber of Deputies has adopted the Franco-American Postal Service Bill. The Postal Bill led to a long discussion and was not adopted until several modifications were made in the details affecting the service with the United States.

The Tonquin Committee has rejected the proposal to appoint a Civil Commission to visit the Peninsula.

The troops detailed for service in Cochinchina, have been ordered to embark at once.

Russia.

CRONSTADT, May 23.—The trial of the great case of fraud in connection with the failure of the savings bank, which has been proceeding here, has resulted in two of the directors of the bank being sentenced to transportation—one to Archangel and the other to Tobolsk.

St. PETERSBURG, May 23.—An official messenger denies that an explosion occurred in the dressing room of the Czar before his departure for Moscow. He says, however, that an explosion, which was due to the escape of gas, did occur opposite the palace.

The persons to be granted amnesty by the Czar on the occasion of his coronation will include civilians exiled to Archangel and soldiers drafted to disciplinary commands.

Italy.

ROME, May 23.—The Vatican has replied to the note of the Prussian Cabinet that it can not accept the proposition to submit to the ecclesiastical appointments of the German Government, either for indorsement or supervision.

Egypt.

LONDON, May 23.—The Suez Canal Company has asked the British Government to support its application to the Khedive for a grant of additional land for the purpose of cutting a second and parallel canal. The company is preparing to commence work at once, as soon as the necessary privileges can be secured.

CAIRO, May 23.—Ismail Eyoub, Egyptian Minister of the Interior, has resigned. Khair Pasha has been appointed his successor.

Austria.

VIENNA, May 23.—Reports from Bosnia say that the ground is covered with three feet of snow, and that the crops are entirely ruined. There will result great suffering.

Roumania.

BELGRADE, May 23.—King Milan to-day opened the session of the Roumanian Parliament with a pacific speech, alluding to the various complications existing in the East, and advising the employment of peaceful methods in their settlement.

A White Elephant.

SINGAPORE, May 23.—The agents of an American circus had succeeded in procuring in Siam a sacred white elephant, which was to be placed on exhibition. Preparations had been made for his departure, but he died yesterday.

THE CZAR IN MOSCOW.

He Enters the Old City of the Romanoffs in Great Splendor,

Amid the Firing of Artillery and the Fluttering of Bunting, and Kneels Before the Picture of the Virgin.

MOSCOW, May 23.—The weather yesterday morning for the entry into Moscow of the Czar was splendid. The whole route from Petrofsky Palace to the Kremlin, four and a half miles, was crowded with people. At every point imperial standards were displayed, and the balconies hung with gayly colored materials and Russian colors. The only foreign flags allowed to be displayed were those over the various embassies. Along the road which the procession traversed were hundreds of Venetian masts from which banners were flying. All the domes and spires of buildings in the city were decked with flags. Thousands of persons passed the night outdoors so they might secure good places to witness the procession. Multitudes of others thronged the churches, praying for the safety of the Czar.

The Czar left the Petrofsky Palace at noon, and reached the Kremlin at 1:25 o'clock. There was a slight fall of rain during the march of the procession, but otherwise the affair was a complete success. The enthusiasm of the people all along the route was unbounded. Cheer upon cheer followed each other incessantly from the densely packed multitude on the streets, and from the thousands of people in the balconies and windows. The Empress was greeted with every mark of enthusiasm and loyalty. Her daughter, the Grand Duchess Xenia, threw kisses to the people. The mounted Grand Dukes formed a very brilliant group. The Asiatic deputations were also magnificently attired. The state carriages were splendidly decorated, and the whole effect was most gorgeous. The entire route was lined with troops. At the moment the cortege entered the city a salute of seventy-one guns was fired from the Tsarkoia Palace. The Governor General received the Emperor at the city boundary and joined the cortege with his suite.

The signal for the starting of the procession was the firing of artillery and the ringing of bells at the Cathedral of the Assumption. On the Emperor mounting other salutes were fired.

The Civil Governor of Moscow, the judges and other city officers received the Emperor at the gate of the Resurrection, where his Imperial Majesty and the Grand Dukes and Empress alighted and knelt in prayer before a picture of the Virgin. The Archbishop of Warsaw received their majesties at the steps of the Cathedral of the Assumption, with a cross and holy water. At this point the cheering of the people was perfectly deafening. The procession then entered the Kremlin. The Emperor wore the uniform of a General and was mounted on a splendid charger. He rode a little in advance of the four Generals who were directly attending him. He maintained a calm demeanor, although he often smiled graciously in response to the wild enthusiasm which greeted him at every point.

The Emperor wore the broad blue ribbon of the Order of St. Andrew over his uniform. The Empress and Grand Duchesses wore the national Russian dresses. After entering the Kremlin, the Court officials presented their Majesties with bread and salt on plates of silver and gold. When their Majesties retired the bells pealed, and a salute of 101 guns was fired.

The streets through which the procession passed were badly paved. The Duke of Edinburgh rode in the rear and on the left of the Czar. The Duchess of Edinburgh sat in the second coach from that in which was the Empress. In the Red square 6,000 school children in white robes sang, "Life for the Czar." At this point the enthusiasm of the multitude and the playing of the bands produced a great effect. The general verdict is that the pageant was a great success. General Sturm, head master of ceremonies, was thrown from his horse and had his skull fractured.

Fire Fiend's Record.

NEW YORK, May 23.—A fire broke out at 190 Greene street this morning in a house in which a number of people were employed. There was a stampede, and it is rumored many were burned to death. One woman was taken out insensible and has since died. The corpse of a child was recovered.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 23.—The Keystone Lock Works, owned by Traim Brothers, burned this morning. Loss $20,000. Incendiary.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 23.—The steam bakery and candy manufactory of J. Ch. Claussen & Co. was totally destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $40,000; insurance, $25,000. A colored employ was burned to death.

BOSTON, May 23.—The dwelling of Henry W. Moody, in Lynn, N. H., burned yesterday. Laiman Moody, aged eighty, was burned to death.

WEDDING OF THE CITIES

The Brooklyn Bridge—Its Matchless Size and Importance.

Grand Preparations for Its Opening—Its Appearance in Electric Light.

NEW YORK, May 23.—All the arrangements are about completed for the opening of the grand bridge that joins New York and Brooklyn. Apart from its being one of the notable structures of the world, which constitutes a thing of general interest, its effect upon the two cities which it joins together makes its completion a momentous occurrence for them. Whether New York will measurably empty itself into Brooklyn, the City of Churches, so far as its business is concerned, or vice versa, is now the chief matter of speculation here. Time can only tell. To-morrow its formal opening takes place in which the President of the United States and other dignitaries will take part. The following are the measurements of the structure, from which it will be seen that it is the largest and longest suspension bridge in the world:

Construction commenced January 3, 1870. Bridge completed 1883. Length of river span, 1,595 feet 6 inches. Length of each land span, 930 feet, 1,860 feet. Length of Brooklyn approach, 971 feet. Length of New York approach, 1,562 feet 6 inches. Total length of bridge, 5,989 feet. Width of bridge, 85 feet. Number of cables, 4. Diameter of each cable, 15 1/2 inches. First wire was run out May 29, 1877. Length of wire in four cables, exclusive of wrapping wire, 14,361 miles. Length of each single wire in cables, 3,579 feet. Weight of four cables, inclusive of wrapping wire, 3,588 tons. Depth of tower foundation below high water, Brooklyn, 45 feet. Depth of tower foundation below high water, New York, 78 feet. Total height of towers above high water, 278 feet. Clear height of bridge in center of river span above high water, at 90 degrees Fahrenheit, 135 feet. Height of towers above high water, 119 feet 3 inches. Grade of roadway, 3 1/2 feet in 100 feet. Height of towers above roadway, 159 feet. The Bridge Tolls—1 horse or horse and man, 5 cents; 1 horse and vehicle, 10 cents; 2 horses and vehicle, 20 cents; foot passengers, 1 cent; 2-horse trucks or wagons, 30 cents; cattle, each, 5 cents; sheep and hogs, each, 2 cents.

The experiment of lighting it with seventy electric lamps was tried Saturday night with pronounced success. The last light is a mile and a half from the battery. There are two Corliss engines, of fifty horse power each, stationed in Prospect street, which will supply the light when the bridge is fully opened, the present arrangement being only temporary, to test the capacity of the burners.

The effect of the light was magnificent. The softness and brilliancy were altogether different from what one has been accustomed to in the imperfect electric lights furnished for local purposes. It threw out the shadows sharp and strong and presenting a most remarkable picture of all below and around—pallid, but clear and strong. As persons passed beneath the rays, their sharp cut shadows rotated around them as they moved. The outline of the bridge was thrown in sharp relief beneath its reflection in the waters almost completing with it a perfect circle. From the towers the view was unspeakably grand. The two great cities lay beneath in irregular outline, with patches of deep shadows here and there and spots of brightness between. The rays of the light went far into the sky, "their glimmering limit long withdrawn." The ships at the wharves were distinctly visible, all their cordage and spars standing out like the tracery of a spider's web. The passengers on board the ferryboats gazed with silent admiration at the spectacle. To use a local simile, it was a veritable Broadway in the sky. On the wharves thousands gathered to witness the grand spectacle. On the tops of the houses on both sides of the river, men, women and children clustered, gazing upon the dazzling scene. The lights that usually glimmer and blaze in the two cities paled "their ineffectual fires" before the new wonder. The "star bordered coverlin" of the heavens was almost eclipsed, and

That orb maiden
With white fire laden,
Whom mortals call the moon,
Had to take a back seat.

On the asters troubled lines of light appeared. The rays from the electric centers darted down to one's eyes, only to recede with even greater swiftness as the watchful eyelids dropped to rest the straining nerves.

From the New York entrance to the bridge the scene was particularly striking. Every light looked like a watchfire sentinel guarding the approach to the City of Churches. From the Brooklyn side each light looked like a glorious beacon, inviting the citizens of New York to a haven of repose.

IMPLACABLE FOES.

A Correspondent's Account of the Fighting Between the Albanian Mountaineers and Montenegrins.

LONDON, May 23.—The following is the true account of the fighting which has been taking place between the Montenegrins and the Albanian mountaineers in those parts. About two months ago the Turkish zaptiehs unjustifiably shot two mountaineers of the Scialla and Sciostri tribe, and about three weeks after some hundred men of that tribe entered the town at night by the guard-house on the Kisi road. Being challenged by the sentry, they fired and killed him. The guard turned out and a skirmish ensued, the troops hurrying up from the Konak Government-house, to assist their comrades. The mountaineers soon retired with an alleged loss of only one man, but the poor soldiers are supposed to have lost at least 20 killed and wounded. The affair, which resulted on the side of the mountaineers with an intimation to Abdi Pasha that they still considered him personally responsible for the murder of their comrades, and on the side of the Turks by the men of that tribe not being allowed to come to Scutari for market—this affair, I say, must not be confounded with that of the Kastrati, another Roman Catholic tribe, which happened only three weeks ago. On that occasion a report having been got up that the Montenegrins had killed a Kastrati mountaineer on the branch of the lake belonging to that tribe, there was a rush to Scutari to kill the first influential Montenegrin they could get hold of. They knew of Verbitza being there, and he had warning to go away a week beforehand, as hostilities were always expected. Well, five men outran the rest of the tribe, and, finding a boat on the lake, rowed round to the Boyana bridge, shot Verbitza, cried out to the passers-by, "Do not meddle with us, we have taken our blood," and, followed by a dropping, irregular fire from the zaptiehs, ran back to where 400 of their companions were waiting just outside the town to cover their retreat.

On receipt of this intelligence, the Montenegrins started across the lake in nine loudras (lighters) of about forty men each, and attacked the Kastrati territory, killing and wounding six men and two women, but losing on their retreat upward of a dozen men. This is the only serious fighting that has occurred. Of course, wherever the Montenegrins find a mountaineer they kill him, and vice versa, but all the rest of the accounts which have been published must have been gotten by the process of rolling the snowball. As for the arrival of Mustapha Azim Pasha, he was sent by the Sultan to inquire into the Scialla and Sciostri affair in which Abdi Pasha, the Governor General, has played a very poor role. The Scutariens are furious about the death of Verbitza, as they consider themselves insulted by the mountaineers, Verbitza being looked upon as their guest. The Mussulmans of Scutari, although hereditary enemies of the Montenegrins, are far the bitterest about it, which says a great deal for their good feeling; but, of course, as is known, a violation of the laws of hospitality is a much more serious offense in the eyes of a Mussulman than of a Christian. As regards all these things from a political point of view, I still think, as I always have thought, that the Austrians are at the back of the Roman Catholic tribes in all these matters. Through the priests they have an unlimited influence over them, and they would like to see Albania in such a state that they could "call themselves in" for its pacification as in the case of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and the Prince of Montenegro's injudicious, not to say bigoted, refusal to allow the Catholic priests to officiate at mass in the capital of his principality has made the Albanians furious, and played into Austria's hands. As for Turkish affairs, the arrival of Mustapha Azim Pasha would be a blessing if he should be appointed Vali in the place of the weak and worthless Abdi, but up till now he has merely summoned the chief of the Roman Catholic tribes to Scutari, a summons which will probably not be obeyed by any but those whose tribes feed their flocks in the Za Drima and south of Alessio, and have to pass through Scutari every summer on their return to their mountain homes.

A WIDOW'S CONFESSION.

She Killed Her Husband and Buried Him Because He Horsewhipped Her.

SAVANNAH, GA., May 23.—An out-of-the-way hamlet in Laurens county is exercised over a terrible crime, the details of which have just been received in this city. On April 6 Ambrose Lingo disappeared, his horse returning home riderless. A few days ago his body was exhumed a few feet from his doorstep. The mystery in which the apparent crime was so long wrapped is solved by the confession of his wife, who has been committed by a Coroner's jury for the murder. Her story is that her husband was unkind to her, and on the evening of his disappearance flayed her with a buggy whip, after which he lay down and went to sleep.

Soon afterwards his wife went to make a fire, carrying in one hand a piece of pine and in the other hand an axe. After kindling the fire she noticed that Ambrose was lying on the bed with his back toward her. Raising the axe, she stealthily crept to the bed and gave him a blow on the head, intending to stun him, so that she could get her things and flee before he could arrest her. She then dropped the weapon, ran off and concealed herself behind a fowl house to await the result.

After a few minutes she returned and found her husband a few feet outside of the door, lying on the ground in the last agonies of death. She at once dug a shallow hole a few feet away, dragged him to it and dumped him in. Then, piling in a lot of pine straw and dirt, she covered the whole with a lot of rails lying near, after which she went on with her farm work, ploughing often within a foot of where her victim lay.

Her conscience began to trouble her after a few weeks, and she told a woman friend of her terrible deed, who told her husband, and the husband conveyed the intelligence to the Coroner, who, after impaneling a jury, visited the place and had the remains unearthed. The body was so decomposed as to prevent recognition. The self-made widow was called and asked if she knew whose body it was. She said "Yes, it's Ambrose's."

"How do you know?" was asked.

"I know it's him because I killed him and put him there, and I know nobody has ever taken him up."

She was arrested and locked up to await trial at the October term of the Superior Court. Public opinion runs high on account of the discovery, and the predicted evidence, no doubt, will result in the woman's execution.

Trouble on the Russo-Chinese Frontier.

St. PETERSBURG, May 23.—Some trouble has again arisen on the Russo-Chinese frontier, in consequence of the impossibility of preventing the continual border raids of the population on both sides of the frontier. The Russians, it appears, have advanced five or six miles further into Chinese territory than they have any right to according to the Kuldja Treaty, and negotiations have already been opened at Peking to induce the Chinese to accept the improved frontier line, in order that peace and security may be insured to the subjects of both countries. The Russians have discovered that the frontier line agreed to in the last treaty is not a thoroughly "scientific" one somewhere in the northeast of the actual Province of Kuldja, and they think that they would be better able to keep order, since the Chinese are unable or unwilling to do so, by advancing their Cossack pickets a few more versts into China. It is not likely, however, that the Chinese Government will agree to this rectification of the frontier, unless very forcibly persuaded to it. A telegram from Zaisan states that the Cossacks have been reinforced, and also that large orders for flour from the Chinese Amban have been refused by order of the Russian authorities. Trade generally at Tchugutahak, the frontier town, has been almost killed, in consequence of the difficulties encountered by the Russian and Tartar merchants in getting the Chinese paper "credit-notes" paid in silver. The Amban, or Chinese Chief of the Tarbagatai District, established this paper currency for the sole benefit of the Russians, on the ground of an insufficiency of silver coinage, and now the Russians are having their paper notes slowly taken up by installments in return for a silver coin, which, although worth more than the paper, is also of rather doubtful value. But the strained relations between the traders are not so serious as the open hostility between the military element of the two countries. The Cossacks and the undisciplined Chinese soldiery have frequently of late come to hand-to-hand fighting, having killed and wounded on both sides; and the Cossacks have more than once pursued the Celestials up to the very walls of their fortifications.

Nine Men Arrested for Land Frauds in Minnesota.

TAYLOR'S FALLS, MINN., May 23.—Considerable excitement was caused here over the arrest for land frauds of Albert Campbell, Chas. Cura, John H. Rowe, Rubey Armond, C. Bragg, John Clement, Clarence Lamborn, Andrew Runyan, Thos. Nonnan and M. Dayan. The arrest was made on the cars by Major A. B. Brackett, Deputy United States Marshal and his assistants. Claims had been filed in the name of the prisoners on pine lands in Mille Lacs county. They attempted to prove up at the land office here Saturday, but were confronted by ex-Governor Marshall, special agent for the Land Department, who had a thorough inspection of the land and found no one living on them, nor any habitable improvement. The proofs of the claimants were rejected by the land officers and the men arrested. They were taken to St. Paul for examination before Court Commissioner Spencer. The latter gentleman, and also Assistant United States District Attorney, C. R. Congdon, were present here when the arrests were made. The name of a prominent Minneapolis lumber firm is unpleasantly connected with the affair. The Government is understood to have evidence that implicates other parties than those arrested. At 2 o'clock p. m. the men all appeared before Commissioner Spencer and waived examination. They were released on bail to appear before the Commissioner for examination the first Monday in October.

A Frost Succeeds the Storm.

OLNEY, ILL., May 23.—There was a heavy frost in this neighborhood last night. From present indications great damage has been done both to the growing crop and fruit.

CHICAGO, ILL., May 23.—The polar wave of the last few days has covered a vast amount of territory in this, the Northwest, and has done irreparable damage to wheat and fruit crops. At many places no fruit whatever will be grown this year. Farmers are despondent.

Such organizations are disintegrating and demoralizing political forces.

Five ordinances are proposed for the regulation of groceries in Copenhagen. The number of public houses is to be reduced from 1,350 to 300. Girls are not to be allowed to stand behind bars. Liquor is not to be sold to persons under eighteen. No liquor is to be sold to persons already visibly intoxicated. A drunken person is to be taken home in a covered carriage at the cost of the house where he took the last drink.

Pedigree of Maud S.

Cincinnati Commercial.
Maud S. was got by Harold, the great trotting sire of Woodburn Farm. Her dam was Miss Russell, by Pilot, jr., Miss Russell was by Boston, out of Maria Russell, by Rattler. Here is where the controversy originated, but it is now settled beyond cavil that the granddam of Maud S. was sired by the historic thoroughbred racer and sire Boston, who will be always famous in turf annals; for, if his own great deeds on the track will be forgotten, his wonderful son, old Lexington, will keep his memory green.

A FAIR CROP PROSPECT.

An Estimate Based on Returns From All Parts of the Country.

New York, May 23.—From 129 reports received from different points in thirty States and Territories, the Times makes the following summary of crop and trade prospects:

The prospect, so far as it can be judged at the present moment, is encouraging. The wheat crop attracts the most attention because it affords the largest proportion of the food exports. Last year it was exceptionally large, being 502,000,000 bushels, against 383,000,000 bushels in 1881, and showing an average of 354,000,000 bushels for the last ten years. The indications are now clear that it will be much less than last year. The central States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, which a few years since furnished nearly forty per cent. of the annual production, will this year yield from 20 to 25 per cent. less than the average crop. Against this, however, there must be put a considerable gain in Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota, and a large gain in Colorado, Utah, California and the valley of the Columbia, with an appreciable gain in some of the Southern States. Taking these into account, the conclusion is reasonable that we shall have a wheat crop larger than the average of ten, or even five, years back. On the other hand, the corn crop, though it is yet early to judge definitely of its prospects, is reported almost uniformly as better than that of last year, and as likely to approach that of 1880, when it was exceptional. This is partly due to a prevailing tendency to replace wheat by corn and to feed the latter. The importance of this change can be seen at a glance when it is remembered that of the enormous corn crop of 1880, over 1,700,000,000 bushels, we exported only some $50,000,000 worth, while during the same period we exported over $105,000,000 worth of bacon, hams, and pork. The effect upon internal commerce and production is even more striking, though it can not be computed in exact figures. The introduction of corn and other crops in the South, which is going on in a remarkable degree, is particularly profitable, for, while it does not seriously diminish the gross production of cotton, it renders that section noticeably more independent, and assures a greater variety of resources and a better prospect of steady returns to the farmers. The most notable and significant feature of our extensive reports is the excellent reason they afford for the most hopeful view in regard to the general crops other than those which enter most largely into the exports. Thus there is a very remarkable increase in the acreage and in the probable yield of the crop of oats; the hay crop, in those regions where it is forward enough to judge of the probabilities, is in a most promising condition; the fruits, both in the Central Western and the Southern, and in the Pacific States, give every indication of a large yield, while the miscellaneous crops are all in a generally flattering state. Upon a careful survey of the whole field, we believe that the inference is fully justified that, while we shall not have a "booming" year,—which is not to be regretted—there is a solid basis for a healthy, progressive, profitable general trade.

Wrecks on the Ocean Highway.

New York, May 23.—Captain McCormack, of the bark Wallace, which arrived from Dunkirk, reports having passed two abandoned wrecks. At 6:30 p. m. on May 14, in latitude 39° 2' and longitude 57° 45', a wreck which was supposed to be that of a bark was sighted. It had been dismantled and abandoned. Its name was not ascertained. On the following day at noon, when in latitude 38° 26' and longitude 58° 17' the Wallace fell in with the wreck of the three-masted schooner Mary J. Russell. A boat's crew from the bark boarded it and found that she had been stripped of nearly everything by the crew of some passing vessel. Only the lower portion of her mizenmast was still standing. Her cargo consisted of pitch-pine timbers, which were working about in the hold, sending out sounds that could be heard at a long distance. The Russell was the vessel which was in collision with the steamship City of Merida, off Hatteras, on April 14. Her crew was subsequently landed at this port by the brig Robert Dillon. Captain McCormack states that both wrecks were lying in a very dangerous position for passing vessels. Several sailing vessels and steamers were seen in the neighborhood of the wrecks.

RIVER INTELLIGENCE.

CINCINNATI, May 23.—River 22 feet 8 inches and rising.

A Villainous Steward.
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA, May 23.—A sensation was created here on a warrant being issued for the arrest of Simpson, Steward of the Small-pox Hospital, from which young Kittson, son of the St. Paul millionaire, who has not yet been found, escaped. The warrant charges Simpson with manslaughter, and was issued at the instance of the city editor of a daily paper, to whom the following statement was made by Joseph Brewster, formerly assistant in the hospital under Simpson: "The facts regarding Dr. Tulloch's case, as published Saturday, were perfectly correct. It was Simpson's custom to place patients in irons at night in order that he might not be disturbed in his sleep. Handcuffs were placed on their feet around their ankles, and their hands tied behind their backs. Henry Marcelle was kept in that position two days and nights. I took pity on him, and during Simpson's absence took off the irons. Marcelle got up and was walking the floor when Simpson came in. Simpson pulled him against a stretcher, causing him to groan and cry. He subsequently died. Simpson abused me for interfering. One night Simpson got orders from the doctors to sit up with Mrs. Vaughan, a patient. He resorted to an easy chair, having tied the patient to the bed with a sheet. He had what is known as a disinfectant lamp placed near the patient's bed. During the night the lamp, by some means, set fire to the bed, and when Simpson was aroused by smoke he rushed into my room for assistance. I ran for a pail of water and threw it on the fire, and Mrs. Vaughan got a part of the contents in the face. She was badly burned about the face, and died in about two hours."

The indictment charges Simpson with manslaughter in connection with Mrs. Vaughan, who died in the hospital last October.

He Would Be Revenged.
LEADVILLE, COL., May 23.—Jack McComb, ex-Democratic nominee for Mayor, who yesterday burned down the new Carroll House in a spirit of revenge for fancied grievances, was held for trial at the Criminal Court this morning.

STOCK AND MONEY MARKET.

The Bears Have It All Their Own Way—The Union Pacific Down—Markets Generally Fairly Active.

New York, May 23.—Money 2 3/4 per cent. closed at 2 3/4 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 5 3/4 per cent. Sterling exchange: long strong at 48 1/2; short, 48 3/4. Produce exports for the week, $4,374,000.

Governments weak and 1/2 per cent. lower. Railroads irregular, without feature. State securities quiet and strong. Stock market again unsettled and feverish during the forenoon, though fluctuations were over a narrow range. The market continued to decline up till 2, when a raid seemed to be made, and prices were depressed 1/2 to 3/4 per cent. The latter on Oregon and Transcontinental and St. Paul, but in the last half hour there was a complete reversal of the situation, and the decline of the first half hour was more than recovered. In the last half hour Northwest advanced 1 1/4 per cent. for preferred to 148 1/2 per cent. in common to 12 1/2; Burlington 1 per cent. to 12 1/2; Lake Shore 1/2 per cent. to 10 1/2; St. Paul 1/2 per cent. to 10 1/2; Louisville 1/2 per cent. to 8 1/2; Oregon Transcontinental 1 per cent. to 8 1/2. General stocks touched extraordinarily low prices to-day as compared with the last two and a half years. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy sold at 12 1/2, the lowest price at which it sold during two years—1881 and 1882—being 12 1/2 in November, 1881. Central Pacific sold to-day at 7 1/4, the lowest price in two years being 8 1/2 in 1882. Union Pacific sold to-day at 9 1/4, the lowest price at which it sold in 1881 and 1882 being 9 1/2 in November, 1881. New York Elevated was offered to-day successfully at 107, 105, 104 and 103, without any sales. The Evening Post says: "It is apparent that for the next two days the market has been left entirely without support from the bull side. The bears have had it all their own way, and it is thought have so far oversold the market that any considerable buying would cause a sharp advance. The Lehigh Navigation Company declared a semi-annual dividend of 2 1/2 per cent., the last semi-annual dividend being 2 per cent."

General Market.
Cincinnati, May 23.—Hogs are quiet; receipts, 1,200 head; shipments, 1,600; range of prices, $6 1/2 to $7 1/2; packers, $6 1/2 to $7 1/2; Whiskey: sales at $1 13 per gallon. Cotton firm at 10 1/2; for middling. Provision market easy: mess pork is steady at $20 1/2 to $21; kettle lard, 11 1/2 to $12; p. s. lard, 11 1/2 to $12; clear rib sides, 10 1/2 to $10 5/8; clear bulk, 11 1/2 to $12; clear hams, 12 1/2 to $13; additional; sugar-cured hams easy at 13 1/2 to $13 3/4; sugar-cured shoulders, 12; and breakfast bacon, 13 1/2.

Leaf Tobacco.
Cincinnati, May 23.—Leaf Tobacco.—The following were prices at the first sale: $5 50, 7 00, 6 00, 5 50, 10 17, 4 60, 2 85, 8 60, 3 90, 10 60, 5 05, 17 12, 75, 8 10, 20 25, 18 25, 5 10, 23 50, 23 50, 24 75, 13 75, 25 75, 25 50, 24 10, 25 23, 31 75, 32 75.

Grain.
Chicago, May 23.—Flour quiet and unchanged. Regular wheat unsettled and generally higher: $1 09 1/2 at 0 99, May; $1 10 1/2, June; $1 12 1/2 at 1 13, July; $1 13 1/2 at 1 13 1/2, August; $1 13 1/2 at 1 13 1/2, September; $1 09 1/2, the year; No. 2 Chicago spring, $1 09 1/2; No. 3 do, 95c; No. 2 red, $1 12 1/2. Corn—Quiet and a shade easier: 56 1/2 to 56 3/4, cash; 56 1/2, May; 56 1/2 to 56 3/4, June; 56 1/2 to 56 3/4, July; 56 1/2 to 56 3/4, August; 56 1/2 to 56 3/4, September; 56 1/2 to 56 3/4, the year.
